Reducing inequality, particularly in education and ensuring justice in society, remains a crucial goal. Mingachevir State University (MSU) implements various activities aimed at this objective. The organizations the university collaborates with and the events it organizes are focused on reducing inequalities related to disability, gender equality, and inclusivity. In line with SDG 10—Reducing Inequality—

MSU strives to ensure that its students have equal access to educational opportunities and has taken several positive steps in this direction.

1. Accessibility for Persons with Disabilities

Accessibility for students with disabilities holds special significance at MSU. The university provides specific teaching methods and technical support to ensure the full participation of students with disabilities in the educational process.

Additionally, the university has adapted its infrastructure to meet the needs of these students, which enables them to benefit maximally from their education.

Gender equality is one of the key themes at MSU. The university promotes gender equality through various seminars and events. These activities provide students and staff with information on gender stereotypes, gender-based discrimination, and how to protect their rights. This helps the university contribute to a more inclusive and just society.

Results

As a result of the activities carried out by MSU, positive outcomes have been achieved in reducing inequality within the university. More favorable educational and social conditions have been created for students and staff with disabilities. The seminars and events on gender equality and inclusivity have increased the participants' awareness of their social positions and rights. Moreover, the legal support services have helped students better understand their rights and responsibilities. In the future, MSU plans to implement more inclusive projects and events. The university's activities in this area are aimed at ensuring that students have equal opportunities to receive education and participate in all aspects of social life.
